String Theory Schools are looking for special education teachers that are creative and innovative life long learners. We are committed to cultivating an educational environment where students are interested, engaged, innovative, and productive. String Theory Schools offer life experience, academics, and the arts, forming a well rounded educational approach. We promote students to hone the ability to create and to be creative, to inspire and to be inspired. Candidates will be considered for our multiple locations.

Starting salaries are $48,000 to $60,000

Requirements:
- Pennsylvania special education teaching certification in appropriate field, where required by law
- Bachelor’s degree required; Master’s degree preferred
- Strong GPA in major area; evidence of rigorous college program.
- Related teaching experience preferred
- Outstanding personal/interpersonal communication skills; openness towards parent conferences
- Experience with technology in facilitating instruction
- Excellent organizational and neatness skills; ability to keep concise records
- Sensitivity to the developmental stages and well being of children
- Willingness to be flexible in terms of teaching assignment within the school setting

www.stringtheoryschools.org